

Terrence J. Murphy Institute for Catholic Thought, Law, and Public Policy

ANSELM HOUSE

All Creatures GREAT AND SMALL

Discerning the Limits of Genetic Modification

THURSDAY, FEB. 28, 2019 | 7 – 8:30 P.M.

WOULFE ALUMNI HALL, UNIVERSITY OF ST. THOMAS

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

HTTPS://LINK.STTHOMAS.EDU/ALL-CREATURES

Science has dramatically increased our ability to intervene in the natural order of creatures and their environment. What are the limits to such technologies, and what might be the virtues necessary for developing a protocol guiding its prudent application? Join us for an opportunity to discuss this complex and vital issue.

Featuring Fr. Nicanor Austriaco, O.P., author of “Biomedicine and Beatitude: An Introduction to Catholic Bioethics,” Dr. Jessica Hellmann, director of the Institute on the Environment at the University of Minnesota; and Dr. John Berkman, professor of moral theology at Regis College at the University of Toronto.

